

LOL, OMG, SMILEY FACE

LOL. OMG. Smiley face. If all we could do was text for the last twenty years and someone came up with a device that allowed us to actually talk to one another...Shazam! Bam! Am I right? We'd be on that like a frog on a pogo stick. "Hello" we could say. "I am talking right now". Spectacular. So how confounding is it that when we invent the 'hello I can hear you chit-chat mechanism' before the 'this keypad's too blankety-blank small for my blankety-blank fingers to type text typing thingamabob' we see that as progress? As advancement. It's not. It's a step back. A lessening.

For full monologue contact me at me@johnmcgie.com.