

TABLOID SERMON

Today's sermon is based on In Touch Magazine, People Magazine, the National Enquirer, The Globe, OK Magazine and, of course, Nuts and Jugs (A Celebration of Size and Girth) - which I only read for the articles. Let me begin by saying it's abominable, detestable and of the basest of nature to engage in the gossipy juice bits of people's private lives and bits made public. It's sick and deplorable and I absolutely adore the morally bankrupt morsels of mischief they fling my way. For example, the other day I was read about a man who made his adopted granddaughter pregnant so he's going to marry her because he wanted to do the right thing.

For full monologue contact me at me@johnmcgie.com.