

DABBLING IN DEATH

COREY Farly? Farly, you ol' stooge. Where have you been all this time?

FARLY I've been dead, Corey.

COREY You're putting me on.

FARLY Would I kid you?

COREY Really? I never thought of you as the sort of person who would go for that sort of thing. I mean, you always had that outlandish zest for life.

FARLY I was a closet case, Corey. A couple of years ago I died and it changed my whole life.

COREY You didn't just drop dead, did you?

FARLY Oh, no. No. I started off with a couple of suicide attempts and then on to slashing my wrists, etc. It was a very gradual thing.

COREY Oh, I see. I had heard, though, that once you died that was mostly it. The thrill was gone after that.

FARLY On the contrary. I am now actively into reincarnation and now and then dabble in life and death situations.

For the entire skit contact me at me@johnmcgie.com.